Through revealed truths, the understanding of God's ultimate wisdom and His love for the Chinese people further strengthens the author's faith in life. His hope is to show others another interesting way to learn traditional Chinese words. In 2004, he was involved in a major car accident and broke several neck bones as well as his left forearm, and had over sixty stitches in his head. Not long afterward, he began working again as an emergency room physician and drove all across many rural areas of Tennessee. He always listened to all kinds of talks, sermons, and books on CDs during his driving. After a few years, he began to link the Chinese characters with Bible stories and wrote this book.
