John D. Rockefeller IV (chairman of the subcommittee) presiding. Staff members assigned to this hearing: Patrick H. Windham, professional staff member; and Louis C. Whitsett, minority staff counsel. Opening Statement of Senator Rockefeller Senator Rockefeller. Welcome to all of you. Thank you for coming. Some of you are from across the country, and others from places closer. This hearing is the first in a series that Senator Burns and I want to have on a critical question and that is: How can advanced technologies help meet major needs of our nation, ranging from civil infrastructure to, in fact, health care and, generally, to economic competitiveness? We believe, both of us, very strongly that Federal research programs have responsibility to help private industry where that is appropriate. And the states can improve their prosperity and their public welfare through this. Civil infrastructure is a fitting subject to start with at a time when Federal and State budgets are tight, but our population is growing. Governments everywhere are under pressure to find better and to find less expensive ways to provide essential infrastructure projects such as highways, bridges, and water systems. The value of the Nation s public works infrastructure is reported to be $2.7 trillion. That is everything in the way of roads, bridges, highways, water systems, sewer systems, and the rest...
