Briggs, D.D: On Occasion of His Inauguration as Davenport Professor of Hebrew and the Cognate Languages in the Union Theological Seminary, New York City The Inauguration of the Rev. Charles A. Briggs, D.D., as Davenport Professor of Hebrew and Cognate Languages in Union Theological Seminary, took place in the Chapel, Thursday, September 21, 1876. Norman White, Esq., Vice-President of the Board of Directors, announced that Dr. Briggs, who had previously served the Seminary for two years as Provisional Professor with great acceptance, had been unanimously elected to the chair, in which he had now been inaugurated, at the meeting of the Board in May last; at which time the Professor elect made declaration of his assent to the Articles prescribed in our Constitution. Prayer was offered by Rev. W. M. Taylor, D.D. After this, the Address now published was delivered by Prof. Briggs. This was followed by a brief charge and words of congratulation by Dr. Adams, the President of the Seminary, in behalf of the Faculty and the Board...
