Excerpt from Centennial Celebration of the Evacuation of New York City, Monday, November 26th, 1883: With an Historical Outline and Order of Procession The protracted struggle between Great Britain and America, known as the War Of the Revolution, commenced in 1775 and ended in 17 83. Punctually at twelve o clock on the morning of April 8th, one hundred years ago, the proclamation of peace between the two countries was read by the Town Major at the City Hall, then in Wall Street, in the presence of a great number of inhabitants. Though the proclamation bears date of the 14th day of February, 1783, it should be remembered that the pre liminaries were signed on the 20th Of January of that year. Washington announced the fact to his army on the 19th Of April. New York had been in British hands since September 15th, 1776. Fighting substantially ended with the battle Of Yorktown in October, 1781, its decisive nature compelling the British Virtually to admit their inability successfully to continue the struggle. Six months after they displayed a willingness, if not an anxiety....
