

Modeling Behavior in Complex Public Health Systems: Simulation and Games for Action and Evaluation (Paperback)

By Christopher Keane

Springer Publishing Co Inc, United States, 2013. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****. This graduate text is the first to present methods for modelling health behaviour dynamics, using numerous online interactive simulations, downloadable programs, and examples of applications to planning interventions. The book examines behaviours that range from simple individual health protective actions to complex cooperative public health actions. It provides a user-friendly and effective method for teaching systems thinking, a core competency now required by the Association of Schools of Public Health. The text presents evolutionary and ecological models of health behaviour, which readers first explore using interactive online simulations. The fundamental principles of these models are explained through the book's narrative and demonstrated through the use of simple board games. The text then shows how to translate these board games into computational models using Netlogo, a free, user-friendly software. Thus no computer programming background is required. Readers will learn the basics of agent-based modelling of individual behaviour, social network behaviour, organisational behaviour, spread of disease, and a variety of public health interventions. Applying these methods to public health systems, sample models introduce the dynamics of networks of organisations and how...
