Forgotten Books, 2018. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Excerpt from The Progress of Liberty, in a Hundred Years, an Oration: Delivered Before the Citizens of Taunton, 4th July 1876 I salute you, my fellow countrymen, with a cheer of welcome on this joyous day, when forty millions of human voices rise up with one accord to heaven, in grateful benisons for the mercies showered on three successive generations of the race, by the Great Disposer Of events, during the hundred years that have passed away. Yet far be it from us to glory in this anniversary festival with any Spirit Of ostentation, as if assuming to be the very elect of God s creatures. Let us rather join in humble but earnest supplication for the continuance of that support from aloft by reason of which a small and weak and scattered band have been permitted SO to grow into strength as now to command a recognized position among the leading powers of the earth. Less than three centuries since, the European explorer first set his foot on these northern Shores, with a view to occupation. He found a primitive race aspiring scarcely higher than to the common enjoyment of animal existence, and slow to respond to any nobler call. Howlong they had continued in the same condition there was little evidence to determine. But enough has been Since gathered to justify the belief that advance never could have been one of their attributes. Without forecast, and insensible to ambition, after long experience and earnest effort to elevate them, the experiment of civilization must be admitted to have failed. The North American Indian never could have improved the state he was in when first found here. He...
