CHAPTER VII The Second Part Of Don Quijote, 1614-1616 After finishing the first part of Don Quijote Cervantes waited ten years before beginning the second part. And it is more than likely that the sequel would never have been written, had not a spurious continuation appeared. This came into Cervantes hands toward the end of the year 1613, and he at once announced that his own true second part would shortly be ready.¹⁰⁸ As yet he had not written a word of it, and for a man already bending with age and the dropsy, shuffling in his gait, it was not a little to promise. But, he adds, who can put a curb on his ambitions? He could not let his true knight, with his heroic visions and resolves, be forever coupled and confused in the world's thought with the chicken-hearted...
