Forgotten Books, United States, 2015. Paperback. Book Condition: New. 229 x 152 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from Wages and the Tariff My address in the joint debate with Representative Benjamin Butterworth, at Tremont Temple, Boston, March 24, 1888, has been severely criticised. I am much obliged to my critics, and have learned a great deal from their articles. I have omitted from the body of the speech as published, or have indicated by a footnote, every statement in the original speech which has been contradicted; and I request every candid reader to consider whether the omission has impaired in the slightest degree the force of the argument, I print in an appendix the portions which have been contradicted, with some additional statistics which throw light upon the subject, and which will, I hope, convince those who take pains to examine them, that my original statements were substantially correct. I will add that the statements which have been challenged were made as the result of careful examination of the subject for many years; and that I solicit the most thorough investigation of them, only requesting my readers to remember that the contradiction of a single statement, even if sustained, does not involve necessarily the validity of the argument which the statement was meant to illustrate.
