Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from A Sermon, Preached to the Bowdoin Street Congregational Society, Boston: On Closing Their House of May Worship, May 4, 1862 Every glad sight and joyous sound seems but a pall and knell to remembered blessings. He says with him who wrote the Lamentations: He hath hedged me about, that I cannot get out. He hath inclosed my ways with hewn stone. Mine eye trickleth down, and if ceaseth not, without any intermission. Or with Hezekiah: I said in the cutting off of my days, I shall go to the gates of the grave. Mine age is departed, and is removed from me as a shepherd s tent. Or David: I am tossed up and down as the locust; and with Job: So am I made to possess months of vanity, and wearisome nights are appointed unto me. It would be vain and would seem like mockery to say, Remember what health you have enjoyed, and be quiet. Such remembrance aggravates the pain. But the same thing can be expressed with a different look and tone, and it makes a world-wide difference. Think that God, who now afflicts you, is as wise and good as when he blessed you with health; find pleasure, not in recalling your former happiness, but in loving and serving Him who girded you with strength.
