And the good lady, having said this, gave vent to her little sigh. Albert used to lake her round by the cliff every morning; and they used to meet just here, on this very spot. I was in the church-yard one morning, speaking to Graves about dear Alfred s tomb, and I saw them. You out before breakfast, Joan? And Mrs. Browne looked at her eldest daughter with unfeigned surprise. Joan colored crimson, and then grew pale as marble, biting her nether lip, and resolved to speak no more, having already said so much more than she had intended. Her little trinmph in betraying Janet s secret was now subdued with shame, and soon dwindled into a mere speck of spleen; for Mrs. Browne walked on briskly but silently, and smiled with amusement or some pleasurable emotion. The simple trustful mother...
