Whats not to like Everything, to 14 year-old Elizabeth Barker. Its the middle of 9th grade and Dads uprooted the family, returning to his Gulf coast hometown. A once-bustling fishing community, Port Winston is pushing every boundary, vying to be the states premier tourist destination. A far cry from quiet, Coulter City, Missouri where Elizabeth used to be somebody and family meant something a whole lot different. Taunted as the newbie camera geek at school, Elizabeths given up trying to fit in. When Grandpa, whos got more judgments than the Old Testament, pronounces her 10 shy of worthless and headed for trouble, Elizabeth bolts for Wayward Landing beach--the countys last wild haven. Her impulsive defense of an endangered, nesting sea turtle against a trio of bullies ignites new purpose, a challenging friendship, and troubles even Grandpa couldnt predict. Her fight to save the Landing for the turtles unearths complex family ties to the powerful developer and a long-buried tragedy. When the Deepwater Horizon oil slick threatens the Louisiana coast and the turtles feeding grounds, Elizabeths journalist mom hits the front lines. And Elizabeths fears and plans hit overdrive. Elizabeths Landing--a compelling environmental and family saga, bridges risk and loss with hope and hearts--human to human, human to animal, human to world.
