HILE the majority of the largest honey pro ducers of our country prefer that their bees should swarm naturally, there are locations and cases where artificial swarming can be practiced to great advantage. There are many plans to do this, and each one, in the hands of the bee-keeper who follows it, is the best. Now I will give a plan or two which I think best for the beginner: The practice of the science of bee-keeping is not unlike the pursuit of other branches of science. You gather an idea, and that idea enlarges and begets other ideas that enable you to generalize your science and modify its modes of application....
