Excerpt from A Lecture on Homoeopathy Delivered Before the Legislature of Michigan Ladies and Gentlemen: - Before entering upon my subject, allow me to express my warm acknowledgments to the honorable members of our House of Representatives for the privilege they have accorded me of addressing you in this Hall. The subject of my lecture is not altogether of a technical nature; it is one embodying deep philosophy and practical usefulness. The restoration and preservation of the public health is eminently a lit subject for enlightened legislation. At all times and among all nations the healing art has enjoyed the fostering care of the governments; the noble State of Michigan will not leave this important branch of human interests to accident or caprice. The most superficial glance at the history of medicine during the last century shows that, amidst the wonderful improvements and discoveries which the genius of man has achieved in the domain of industry and science, the healing art has not remained stationary. It may be truly said that almost every department of medicine has been created by the philosophical minds of our age. Look at the wonderful developments of the science of Anatomy; the structure of the human body has been unfolded to to our wondering senses, even to its ultimate fibres.
