Not illustrated. 1911 Excerpt: .the ReView for the past 20 years, and is expected to continue in the general management. Every reader and friend will miss, beyond words, the personality, power, and positive messages of the late editor-in-chief, Dr. Pierson. but we know that the same God who spoke through him can and will speak through others, and the same Holy Spirit that empowered him is ready to empower others. God calls His servants up to higher service, but he raises up others to carry on the work that they have laid down here. The past and the present history of the Review and the needs of the hour indicate that God has still a great purpose and field of service for the MisSionary Review--it may be much larger even than in the past. We earnestly invite the prayers and cooperation of our friends and the friends of missions to this end. The plans for the coming year have not yet matured sufficiently to be announced, but it is hoped and expected that one of the leading advocates and writers in the missionary world will join the editorial staff of the Review. There are further plans for securing the active cooperation of representative missionary leaders in such a way as to insure increased interest, influence, definiteness of purpose, accuracy, and world-wide scope. The policy of the Review, unless there should be a radical change in management, will continue to be practically the same as in the past 20 years--with...
