

Light-Headed (Paperback)

By Ruth Templeton

New Generation Publishing, 2010. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .The goddess Maat weighs the dead heart, Removes integument, like a serpent's skin. The flame of love, a feather on the head, Flutters around the trembling soul. This collection of poetry explores the relationship between spirituality and reality, religion and science, life and death, and is rich with Greek mythology. Gods and goddesses are very much alive and present within Templeton's work and the lines are coloured with references to great writers and artists. The result is an imaginative and intelligent selection of poetry which takes delight in life's mysteries. AUTHOR BIO: Ruth Templeton has worked as a nurse, school teacher and nurse tutor over many years. She lived with alcoholics under the auspices of the Richmond Fellowship in the seventies. She studied at Hillcroft College, Surbiton; Hockerill College, Bishop's Stortford; and the Open University. She is married to Wynford Lloyd Thomas and they live in Cardiff.

READ ONLINE
[6.01 MB]

Reviews

This is actually the best book i actually have go through right up until now. It generally will not price an excessive amount of. I discovered this book from my dad and i suggested this book to understand.

-- Norma Carroll

Very useful to all group of folks. This really is for all who statte there was not a worthy of reading. I am very happy to explain how this is the best pdf i have study inside my personal life and can be he greatest book for actually.

-- Marcelle Homenick