Reviews

An extremely awesome publication with lucid and perfect explanations. It is actually written in basic phrases rather than confusing. You will like how the writer publishes this book.

ROBERT BURNS AND THE SCOTCH EXCISE BOARD (CLASSIC REPRINT) (PAPERBACK)

Forgotten Books, 2017. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Excerpt from Robert Burns and the Scotch Excise Board The origin of the fama clearly proceeded from Burns himself, who in December, 1792, wrote to Mr Graham of Fintry, one of the five Commis sioners who formed the Board of Excise, that he was surprised, confounded, and distressed because of a hint he had got, that the Board was going to inquire into his political conduct as being suspected of disloyalty to Government. Burns anticipated any inquiry by making a clean breast of his opinions. Mr Graham, it is believed, showed this letter to his colleagues, who were evidently satisfied that no inquiry was needed, and no inquiry was made, nor was any official notice taken of the incident. But Burns was greatly frightened, chattered over the matter, and thereby started a rumour which, like the three black crows, became something as black, sir, as a crow; for he (in January, 1793) wrote to his universally respected friend Mrs Dunlop with reference to his prospects in the Excise I cannot possibly be settled as supervisor for several years. I must wait the rotation of the list, and there are 20 names before mine. Besides, some envious, malicious devil has raised a demur on my political principles. I have set henceforth a seal on my lips as to these unluckypolitics, c., c. To quiet reports he wrote to Mr Erskine of Mar You have been misinformed as to my dis missal from the Excise. I am still in the service. From such meagre data biographer-s and commentators have raised the mischevious superstructure that has existed till the present moment.
