This item is printed on demand - Print on Demand Neuware - Seminar paper from the year 2011 in the subject History Europe - Germany - National Socialism, World War II, grade: 1,0, University of Oregon, language: English, abstract: During the 'Great Patriotic War', poetry and literature expressed to many Soviets the idea of hope and optimism when fear and death were very near. Fighting a war against Nazi Germany demanded everything from the Soviet people, but the fascist enemy welded the people together. Cooperation and an iron will became the ideal of the heroic Soviet citizen. As one of the most famous and celebrated writers in Soviet literature of the post-World War Two period, Vera Panova deals in her works exactly with this brave and non-surrendering type of Soviet citizen. In the tradition of other Soviet Realist novels, hope and optimism are the recurrent themes in Vera Panova's works on World War Two. It is her credo that restoring the country is challenging, but doable. Using the historiographical method of a cultural and political interpretation, this paper will analyze the works of one of the most read...
