Forgotten Books, 2018. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Excerpt from Our Country Home: How We Transformed a Wisconsin Woodland It seems an incredible thing now as I look back, to think I was once that narrow and ignorant and prejudiced Person Who Did Not want a Country House. Perhaps during all those obstinate years, my lucky star kept me from falling into suburban temptations and free from farming entanglements. I know one thought was always uppermost in our minds, even before the If was exchanged for the When, in discussing this great and - to us - momentous undertaking. The woods, the Virgin Forest, must never be disturbed, not one brown leaf should be taken from its rich covering, not one weak seedling should be denied its growth, but just as we found it, in all its natural beauty, so it should remain. It almost seemed as if this particular bit of wild land in the midst of farms and clearings, on the shores of a beautiful lake, had been especially preserved during all those fallow years for our gratification, at least what harm if we thought so? No sheep or cattle had ever browsed there. The bent-down young sapling of the Indian trail was still Visible, the concave boulder where the women once ground their corn lay only half buried in the ground. In mossy hollows stood stiffly the moccasin tower, and the curious squaw-root grew Close to the Indian pipe.
