Excerpt: . . . 11 Mr. Chairman, we are making good progress on the high-risk list, and I am pleased that the Administration, at the highest lev-els, is involved in the process. Mr. Chairman, I want to thank you for holding this hearing. If I may go to one question, we are coming to a vote. Senator V. Yes, why dont you go ahead. OINOVICH KAKA Senator A. All right. Senator V. We have got some time left. I am going to OINOVICH try and see if we cant run this until about the end, and then we will leave and try and cast the second vote, because there are two votes, I think, if it is all right with you. Senator A. Mr. Johnson, thank you for your approach to ad-KAKA dressing the challenge. I can see that the OPM plan provides cer-tain goals and milestones. Although I did not expect to see details on funding the plan, I know that meeting the plans metrics will require significant funds for programs and other personnel serv-ices. Some of my questions for Secretary Kreig were along these lines, too. My question to you is, do you or Director Springer have any pre-liminary figures on how much money will be needed to reach the goals of the plan, especially in the area of information technology needs Ms. S. Senator, we dont have a number to give you right PRINGER now. We could look into it. I can say...
