Excerpt from The Engineers Club of Dayton When you know a thing, to hold that you know it; and when you do not know a thing, to allow that you do not know it; this is knowledge. - Confucius. The Engineers Club of Dayton originated in the generous desire of two of Dayton s engineers to share with others, some of the prominent men attracted to our city because of the fact that we are attempting the unusual in Dayton. The civic welfare is in the hands of trained engineers, versatile in sewage disposal, water supply, street paving, and similar city problems. Our Flood Prevention Plans mark the first practical solution of stream control, as applied to an entire rivershed. Dayton s one thousand factories have able engineers contributing no little to the world s progress. The eyes of the world are upon Dayton. Just a short time ago ten expert drainage engineers visited this city: What an inspiration; what widening of horizon; what an encouragement for the younger fellows; what a contribution to Dayton s future just to meet these...
