The former epoch began with the arrival, in June, 1856, of the first steamboat freighted for Sioux City, which, that year, grew to be a town of 400 inhabitants; it may be said to close with the completion of the first railroad, in March, 1868. All that goes before - and it would make a chapter of romantic story - relates to the time of pure adventure in the northwest, rather than to its substantial development; it includes the day of exploration, of the French voyager, of the trader and the trapper. The first account of the visit of white...
