FROM LIPID BILAYERS TO SYNAPTIC VESICLES

VDM Verlag Jul 2008, 2008. Taschenbuch. Book Condition: Neu. 223x154x15 mm. Neuware - Conventional molecular bioscience deals with molecules in solution, but in the cell molecules are often organized in functional aggregates. Visualizing and studying these structures is one of the key challenges posed to nanoscience by biology. The invention of the AFM has revolutionized the way in which microscopists explore biological structures. The author Ann-Katrin Awizio gives a short overview about the use of the AFM in the life...
