Deep Moat Grange

By S. R. Crockett

CreateSpace Independent Publishing Platform. Paperback. Condition: New. This item is printed on demand. 118 pages. Dimensions: 9.0in. x 6.0in. x 0.3in. I was only a young fellow when these things began to happen among us, but I remember very well the morning when it first came out about the Bewick carrier. He was postman, too, but had got permission to keep a horse and cart so that he might make a good little bit by fetching parcels and orders from town. Town to us meant East Dene, and Bewick, to which Harry went, lay away to the east among the woods and hills. It was a lonesome place, Bewick, and, indeed, is still, though now they have got a railway coming within eight miles or so. But the mystery of the Moat Wood happened before there was any talk of railways. Harry Foster was his name the carriers, I mean and a common one enough in Northumberland. Many a ride have I gotten on his cart, which was a light one on springs blue body, orange shafts, panelled with red, and the shafts lined red. You could tell the cart anywhere. At least any of the Breckside boys could, quite a mile away. And...
