GRIN Verlag Jun 2013, 2013. sonst. Bücher. Book Condition: Neu. 208x65x1 mm. This item is printed on demand - Print on Demand Neuware - Seminar paper from the year 2013 in the subject English - Discussion and Essays, grade: 3,0, University of Paderborn, language: English, abstract: Mark Twain once said: 'What is the chief end of man - to get rich. In what way - dishonestly if we can; honestly if we must. Who is God, the one only and true Money is God. Gold and greenbacks and stock - father, son and the ghost of same - three persons in one; these are the true and only God, mighty and supreme; and William Tweed is his prophet'1 Mark Twain is a man of honesty and pride who cares about the others and tries to battle corruption and greed and doesn't fear the rich and criticizes and attacks them in every possible way. This essay is going to be about Mark Twain and his political outlook in the time of the Gilded Age connected with his standpoint in society. How does he proceed in his battle against corruption, greed and dishonesty Is he an active or passive man in connection with political matters Is he a Republican or a Democrat or neither one of both Is Mark Twain a man of the middle class or the upper class Who are his enemies and victims How does he present himself in society All these questions are going to be answered in this essay. To give a short overview and certain kind of basic knowledge of the time we are talking about and to understand Mark Twain's mindset and standpoint, this essay includes a short summary of the Gilded Age with its problems and typical characteristics. After that, we move on to...
