The greatest care was necessary to keep this orbis even in shape, and dire was the punishment which awaited the unhappy slave who misplaced even one curl.7 In the back the hair was divided into many parts, braided, and these braids were coiled: (a) in the low, long coil of the two preceding periods, Type I, (b); Type II, (a); (b) in a coil halfway up the head; this coil was sometimes made without braiding the hair. The locks or curls on the neck, seen in the preceding type, entirely disappeared. Juvenal speaks of this style of coiffure in the following lines:8 Another, trembling on the left, prepares To open and arrange, the straggling hairs In ringlets trim: meanwhile the council meet And first the nurse, a...
