For bakers, waiters, cooks, butchers, musicians, dentists, clerks, vintners, coachmen, servants, and errand boys the instruction in drawing is optional. The elementary courses prepare for the special technical courses. The tuition is $1.43 per year. The first year s course was given in 19 parallel classes in 1906, with two hours each weekly in freehand drawing, geometric drawing, industrial arithmetic, and composition, and one hour each per week in bookkeeping and penmanship. The average number in each one of the parallel classes was 27. The second year s course was given in 16 parallel classes, averaging 21 each, with two hours weekly in projective drawing, arithmetic, and composition, four in free-hand drawing, and one in bookkeeping. A course without drawing...
