Createspace, United States, 2014. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Refund anticipation loans (RALs) are bank loans secured by the taxpayer s expected refund and Refund anticipation checks (RACs) are temporary bank accounts established on behalf of a taxpayer into which a direct deposit refund can be received. The goal of this project is to provide greater information on the characteristics of RAL/RAC users and why they choose these products. We find that among the most important characteristics influencing RAL/RAC use were lower income, young adulthood, single head-of-household filing status, receipt of the Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC), and use of a paid preparer. We also find that RALs and RACs are highly spatially concentrated and that living in the poorest communities is associated with dramatic increases in use of these products, even after controlling for a taxpayer s income and filing status. Also, for the first time, we found some unique differences in the use of RALs versus RACs according to such variables as military status. Finally, we find that individuals with any interest and dividend income used RALs and RACs to a much smaller degree than did those with otherwise similar characteristics. RALs and RACs are used by one in seven tax filers-and more than one in six filers who receive refunds. Taxpayers are able to receive their refunds more quickly than a mailed check by using RALs, often in one to three days. RACs are no quicker than other IRS direct deposit returns, but for those who lack a bank account, and/or would receive a paper check, they may speed up receipt of refund by up to six weeks. Both RALs and RACs enable payment of tax preparation fees out of the expected refund. To gain a better understanding of...
