NASA Space Science Vision Missions (Hardback)

By -

American Institute of Aeronautics Astronautics, United States, 2008. Hardback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book. In order to extend analyses of the scientific objectives, system design, and operations of potential future space science missions, and to identify precursor technology requirements, The National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) has funded studies for a variety of advanced missions - the Space Science Vision Missions. The investigator teams have completed their formal final reports for these studies. The teams were invited to develop shorter, summary versions of these final Vision Mission reports suitable for a broader audience. This book, published in partnership with NASA, is the culmination of that effort. Each of the eight reports sketches out a revolutionary mission concept, providing information on its scientific rationale, architecture and implementation approach, technology challenges, and deployment and operations. A final chapter describes an analysis of directions for future technology development inspired by this portfolio of mission concepts. It includes reports such as: Solar Polar Imager - Observing Solar Activity from a New Perspective (Using a solar sail, the Solar Polar Imager mission will observe the Sun from a polar orbit to observe magnetic fields and convective flows in the polar regions as well as...
