Some time ago a lady's fur boa was found by a student and turned in at the office. An advertisement was inserted in a paper by the lady and then she learned that such a boa was advertised as lost in Madison Hall Notes. If finders of articles will report them promptly at the office and losers will come there for information, a larger number of misplaced articles would find their owners again. When, after a reasonable length of time, an article remains still unclaimed, the finder can have it returned to him; the Bureau does not attempt to appropriate the property nor to keep it indefinitely. Mid-Week Meetings There was much interest shown last Wednesday night in the student meeting. Over a hundred men, the largest attendance of the session, were...
