No one has so profoundly exposed the worldliness of the connoisseur, or virtuoso, who, feeling none of the unsatisfied aspirations of the artist, rests in the visible products of art, and looks for nothing beyond them. The bishop orders his tomb at St. Praxed s, and My Last Duchess, and Monsignor in Pippa Passes, will be remembered by every reader of Mr. Browning. The unbelieving and worldly spirit of the dying bishop, his sense of the vanity of the world simply because the world is passing out of his reach, the regretful memory of the pleasures of his youth, the envious spite towards Gandolf, who robbed him of the best position in St. Praxed s for a tomb, and the dread lest his reputed...
