Cognitive Training for Children: Manual to the Test: A Developmental Program of Inductive Reasoning and Problem Solving (Paperback)

By K. J. Klauer, G. D. Phye

Hogrefe Publishing, Canada, 1995. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book. This is the manual which forms part of a practical programme designed to help children and adolescents achieve greater competence in problem solving and inductive reasoning. Careful studies in both Germany and the USA have shown measurable increases in analytical reasoning skills after use of this programme. This training can be used in a one-to-one context, in small groups or for entire classrooms of students at once, using colour overhead versions of the training materials. Particular success has been achieved by teachers and school psychologists working with gifted students, as well as those with clinical and learning disabilities. Recent clinical uses of the programme with hyperactive and attention deficit disorder have also shown positive effects. In addition, many teachers and counselors appreciate the use of this programme as a screening activity, in the context of outcome based learning environments. The system consists of 120 carefully developed problems , presented via full-colour and durable plates. 20 inductive reasoning problems are provided for each of the six basic types of information processing procedures: generalization; discrimination; cross classification; recognizing relationships; discriminating relationships; and systems construction. For each type of process,...
